

Spring 2020

Specialized TESOL Methodology: Listening

Instructor: Yasuko Ito

E-mail: yasukoi@kanda.kuis.ac.jp

Course description

In this course, we will focus on introducing the theory and the practice of teaching listening. We will first look at theoretical backgrounds of listening and then examine various techniques used to teach listening. The participants will analyze and evaluate their own listening activities, consider ways to modify them, and develop original activities to teach listening. The course will start with the review of theoretical background, followed by an analysis of an activity and the teaching practice.

Course materials

Required:

Richards, Jack C., & Burns, Anne (2012). Tips for teaching listening: A practical approach. Pearson

Additional reading materials will be provided by the instructor and by the classmates.

Assessment/Grades

▪ Class participation:	50%
▪ Reflection of teaching technique	25%
▪ Microteaching	25%

Total:	100%

This course takes a Pass/Fail grading system.

Assignments

1. Reflection of teaching techniques

In the course textbook, each tip is followed by an example activity. Looking at the example activities, you will be asked to select several tips that can be integrated into your classroom teaching.

You will give a short presentation (approximately 10-15 minutes) to explain the following:

- (1) Tips you selected;
- (2) Reasons why you selected those tips, among many; and
- (3) How you can integrate the tips into your classroom teaching.

Please prepare either a handout or PowerPoint slides to give a presentation. This assignment is connected to the next assignment, Microteaching.

2. Microteaching / Reflection of your trial

You will be asked to do one of the following:

- (1) If there is a chance to do any listening activity in your own classroom, please do so and reflect upon the activity. You should give a presentation of the activity in class.
- (2) If there is no chance to try out a listening activity in your classroom teaching, you have to do microteaching on listening in our class.

More details will be given on the first day of the class.
